An aerial photograph of a coastal region with a large body of water on the left and a green, forested landmass on the right. A red dotted line outlines a path along the coast. A solid red line follows a road that curves through the forest. A red arrow points to a specific spot on the road. Another red arrow points to a location on the beach. A third red arrow points to a spot on the road further inland. A small black circle with a white center is located on the road near the top right.
